UNIVERSITY SENATE ADOPTS RESOLUTION

Plan Will Become Effective When Personnel of Body Is Selected

At the instance of officers of the men's student council, of the women's self governing association, and of the junior class, the university senate adopted a resolution in its regular monthly meeting Monday, January 20, the effect of which was to establish upon the campus, an executive board which shall henceforth have control of the Kentucky Kernel, student paper; and the Kentuckian, annual year book published by the student body. This action was taken after due deliberation on the part of organizations mentioned, and officers of the junior class who annually elect during their junior year the editor and business manager of the Kentuckian. The journalism department joined heartily in the request that a governing board of these publications be established.

The resolution was adopted by the senate with the understanding that the junior class shall have representatives on the board, and as soon as the class shall have named its representatives, the instrument becomes effective.

In 1914 when the department of journalism was installed in the university, The Idea, which was the name of the student paper at that time, was controlled by a governing board; but when its name was changed to The Kentucky Kernel, the governing board ceased to function for some reason, and since that time, the student paper has been running without such authority except such as came to it in an advisory way from the department of journalism.

In view of the fact that within the last six years The Kernel has purchased and virtually paid for by its own efforts a plant worth approximately $19,000 and now has a gross annual income of approximately $14,000, it was deemed wise to establish an executive board to handle it and kindred publications. The resolution provides that two members of the teaching staff of the department of journalism shall be members of this board. This board, therefore will be controlled entirely by students as has been the constant desire of the department of journalism.

"Local Color" Gets Recognition From New York Times

Frank C. Davidson, Barbourville, Ky., student of the University, and president of Strollers, dramatic organization, received early this week a letter from the New York Times asking him to send to the paper his play and also the pictures of Miss Katherine Davis, Lexington, Ky., and Earl King Sniff, Mt. Sterling, Ky. The pictures will appear in the Tuesday edition of the New York newspaper.

Mr. Davidson is the author and producer of "Local Color," the Stroller musical comedy offering of the season. He was assisted in his work by Miss Davis and Mr. Sniff, who collaborated with him and composed the musical scores.

Among the offers which Mr. Davidson has received, are home talent and professional offers. Miss Mildred E. Murphy, dramatic instructor of the Orlando High School, Orlando, Fla., has extended the first offer, and has written to the Stroller organization, proposing to rent the play for production by high school talent. Two professional companies have made offers to buy the play from Mr. Davidson. These offers have not yet been accepted. Some of the musical numbers from "Local Color" will be broadcast from the Edgewater Beach hotel, in Chicago. The date for broadcasting depends on the length of time it will take for the songs to be sent away.

Anderson to Leave Sunday for Meeting

Dean F. Paul Anderson will leave Sunday morning to attend the Annual Meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers in Philadelphia. Monday afternoon he will make a special inspection trip with invited guests to the Frost Research Laboratories at Norristown, Penn.

Tuesday night Dean Anderson will preside at the Past Presidents dinner of the Society. On Saturday, February 1, Dean Anderson will be the guest at the Annual Sales Convention of the York Heating and Ventilating Corporation of which Thornton Lewis is president.

Guignol Actors Rehearse Nightly For Production of "East Lynne"

Excellent Cast for Third Play of Year at University Theater Is Selected by Director Frank Fowler to Revive Famous Play Adapted from Novel by Mrs. Henry Wood

By Martin R. Glenn
The Guignol actors, under the direction of Prof. Frank C. Fowler, are holding nightly rehearsals for their third production of the season that will be presented at the Guignol theater during the entire week of February 10. An excellent cast has been selected for the production of "East Lynne" and it is already rumored by dramatic critics that it will be one of the outstanding plays of the season. The cast of characters include Glenn Baylor, formerly of the University of Virginia, as Sir Francis Levison; Martin Glenn as Lord Mount Severn; Claude Walker as Richard Hare; John Noonan as Mr. Dill; Margaret Lewis will enact the dual role of Lady Isabel and Madam Vine; Helen King as Barbara Hare; Mary Louise McDowell as Miss Carlyle; Christine Johnson as Joyce; Lola Robinson as Wilson. "East Lynne" was adapted from the novel of that name by Mrs. Henry Wood, and was given its premiere presentation at the Boston Museum in 1885. It was immediately acclaimed as a masterful drama that truly depicted life in the gay sixties. Across the Atlantic came troops after troupe of English actors to invade the American field and share in the huge box-office receipts of the new drama. Dramatic production has undergone great changes since "old timers" crowded into the Boston theater 65 years ago to sob to the paths emanated by Miss Kate Denlin, who played the leading female role, and that one fact alone insures the success of the Guignol undertaking. No part of the performance will be a burlesque of the old favorite that has moved audiences to tears. On the contrary, the actors will closely adhere to the manuscript. So close, indeed, that the drama will contain so much flammatory action that a modern audience may have difficulty in knowing just when to laugh and just when to cry.

The entire performance will be modeled upon Christopher Morley's recent revival of "After Dark" that was staged at his theater in Hoboken. The production was immediately acclaimed as one of the outstanding plays of the year and Mr. Morley was highly praised for his historical contribution to the field of dramatics.

"East Lynne" will be the second antiquated play that has been revived in this manner. Lexington theatergoers are fortunate in having the opportunity to witness such a performance. The play, which is in five acts and thirteen scenes, will be interspersed with ballet numbers, aesthetic dances, and other musical numbers that were the talk of Broadway in the bygone days of 1885.

AG. CONVENTION OPENS JAN. 28

Annual Farm and Home Sessions Feature Prominent Speakers During Four-Day Conference Sponsored by University

The opening session of the annual Farm and Home Convention will be held at the University, Tuesday, January 28. Many phases of the present farm problems will be discussed during the four day session, and hundreds of farm men and women will be able to hear speakers who are authorities in the fields of homemaking and the problems confronting rural communities.

James C. Stone, vice chairman of the Federal Farm Board, will deliver two addresses during the convention. On Wednesday morning, January 29, he will discuss the Federal Farm Board, and on Thursday morning, January 30, he will discuss the tobacco situation and the possibilities for another cooperation of the tobacco growers. Mr. Stone will come to the convention from Washington where he has lately been called into service.

Tobacco growing and marketing as well as sheep raising will be the discussions during the first day while pasture improvement and dairying will feature the second day. The third day will be devoted to live stock improvement and the control of diseases. Farmers and homemakers will hold separate sessions. James E. Poole, who has attended the convention the last three years, will give an address on Friday. He is a noted live stock marketing specialist. Other subjects to be discussed during the meeting will be homemaking, poultry raising, beekeeping, and veterinary questions. Many farm men and women are expected to attend the convention this year, and the railroads have offered reduced fares for the benefit of those attending.

Pettigrew Resigns Band Sponsorship

Successor Will Be Selected Early in February, Says Sulzer

Laura Pettigrew, twice elected sponsor of the University band, will be graduated at the end of the first semester and as a consequence will resign her affiliation with the band, it became known during the past week. She will return to her home in El Paso, Texas, after the commencement exercises.

Miss Pettigrew was elected sponsor of the University band one year ago and her term expires with the end of the first semester. Recently, the band elected her to serve until June 1. A new sponsor will be selected sometime during February, according to a statement issued by Prof. Elmer O. Sulzer, director of the University band. Two nominating committees of three men each will be named by the director to consider the applicants for the position.

REGISTRAR'S NOTICE

Students may register either this morning or the afternoon of Thursday, January 30, according to an announcement issued yesterday from the Registrar's office. Registration will not be held on January 31 as previously announced.

The Last Kernel

Next Issue of University Paper Will Appear February 7

This is the end! Today marks the final appearance of The Kentucky Kernel on the campus until the second semester gets under way and final examinations are terror of the past.

Robins have been reported at Stamping Ground, Ky., but the Kernels not so optimistic over the outlook of bleak days during the exam period. The staff is in hysterics over the prospects of "flunking." The world is fraught with "cramping."

The result is that there will be no issue of the paper until February 7. At that time, the paper will resume its regular weekly issues.

DEBATING TEAM TRYOUT PLANNED

Aspirants Will Be Given an Opportunity to Show Their Forensic Ability on Feb. 6

Second semester tryouts for the University debating team will be held in room 111 of McVey Hall at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of February 6. Any student of the University in good standing is eligible to participate in the tryout and take part on any one of the 60 debates which will be held during the second semester.

No special preparation will be required of entrants in the contests. They will be given a mimeographed article concerning some public controversy, after which 30 minutes will be allowed for reading and analysis. A subject then will be announced and the contestants will be given the opportunity to participate in a purely extemporaneous discussion. Five faculty judges name the men and women deemed qualified to appear in public as representatives of the University.

There have been 38 debates this year. During the second semester, the University teams will oppose Berea College, Bucknell University, Centre College, the University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania State University, Swarthmore College, Princeton, Harvard, Northwestern, Florida and Miami Universities, and other institutions.

Anyone interested in debating, regardless of whether or not they wish to tryout for the team, is invited to attend the trials. At the present time there are only nine students actively engaged in the work, and it is the desire of the faculty advisors to interest more students in forensic work.

Jaszi Is Heard by Relations Students

The study class in International relations of the University held a dinner meeting Thursday evening in honor of Oscar Jaszi, of Austria and Oberlin, Ohio. Mr. Jaszi was the speaker of the evening. His subject was: "Is a United States of Europe Possible?" He gave a clear picture of the modern situation and the possibilities, in his opinion, of such a union in Europe. Mrs. Troxell presided and introduced the speaker.

Woman's Club Members Hear Book Reviews

Miss Marguerite McLaughlin Discusses Biography by Lexington Man

The reading circle of the Woman's Club of the University, which met with Mrs. Harry McElowney at her home on Richmond road Tuesday afternoon, had the pleasure of hearing reviews of "Bird of God," by Virginia Hersch; "Journey's End," by R. C. Sheriff and "Lincoln and His Wife's Home Town," by W. H. Townsend. Mrs. B. P. Ramsey, chairman of the circle, presided.

Mrs. Alfred Zembrod gave an extended review of "Bird of God," which is the story of the romance of El Greco the Cretan artist who fled from his home at the age of 16 and went to Venice where he worked with Titian.

Perhaps no play of 1929 has been as generally discussed, especially by critics outside the metropolitan cities as has Sheriff's "Journey's End" which was considered in an excellent paper by Mrs. Albert Olney. The play deals with English officers in a dugout in the British trench before St. Quentin, March 1918, and has been presented first in London, where the author is so prominent, and simultaneously in New York and in Paris, France, where the play was given in English.

"Lincoln and His Wife's Home Town" was reviewed by Miss Marguerite McLaughlin who told of the extent of research required for such authentic reporting of history as told in the Townsend work and reading many selections from the various chapters, closed her review with the remark that the biography is interesting to the point of fascination.

In the social hour which followed the presentation of the program the books were discussed generally and Mrs. McElowney assisted by Mrs. D. H. Peak, Mrs. W. E. Freeman and Mrs. D. V. Terrell, served tea, sandwiches and cakes. The meeting next month will be held with Mrs. W. S. Taylor on the third Tuesday of February.

Terrill, Day Write Best Contest Ads

Prize Winning Specimens to Appear in This Week's Kernel

G. R. Terrill, Francis Day, and Thomas C. Gaines, Jr., have been announced as winners of the annual advertising contests, conducted by Dr. J. B. Miner in his Psychology of Advertising and Selling class. Claybrook Turner and L. Paul Blanchard won second place in two of the contests.

The prize-winning ad written by Mr. Day in the Kernel contest will be published in this edition of the paper, as will Mr. Terrill's ad for the Kentuckian.

The Kernel and Kentuckian contests each gave as the reward to the winner, $100. In the general contest the prize was $25.

Thirty members of the class participated in the contests. Judges for the Kernel contest were Prof. E. J. Asher, of the psychology department; Roy H. Owsley, business manager of the Kernel; and Miss Helen King, of the University publicity bureau. Miss King and Prof. Asher acted as judges in each of the other contests.

William R. Pearce Proves to be Star During Annual Southern Debating Trip

By JAMES S. PORTER, JR.

Six members of Professor Sutherland's University debating team spent the annual southern trip in a 13 day journey through Florida, Georgia, and Tennessee, participating in 15 intercollegiate debates.

William R. Pearce, of Mott, N. D., sophomore, was the star of the trip, debating eight times and speaking extemporaneously in such an impeccable fashion that he drew praise from the authorities of the colleges whose teams Kentucky debated. Others who made the trip were Richard M. Weaver and James S. Porter, Jr., juniors; Sidney T. Schell, Jr., T. Clifford Amynx and Hugh R. Jackson, sophomores.

Kentucky won the one and only decision debate when Weaver and Schell defeated Emory University debaters at Decatur, Ga., by popular decision of the audience—208 to 87. The remarkable thing about this victory was that both the Emory debaters were graduates of Emory high school, yet the Kentuckians argued so effectively that the home team was deluged under the verdict. The other 14 debates were no-decision or split-team meets.

Prof. Sutherland and his debaters left early Thursday morning, January 2, and arrived at Cleveland, Tenn., late that night, due to an unexpected delay in Knoxville, Tenn. The Kentuckians spent the

SKELETON SENT TO FUNKHOUSER

Remains of Elephas Columbi Excavated in Louisiana Are Shipped to Scientist For Exhibition

The executive meeting of the officials and coaches of the Southern Conference, held in December at Baton Rouge, La., did not occupy all of Dr. W. D. Funkhouser's time while he and Coach Carnegie were looking after the university's athletic interests. This fact was revealed recently when Dr. Funkhouser received two large packages from Prof. L. F. Broussard, of Louisiana State University, which contained the remains of a prehistoric mammoth.

Dr. Funkhouser unearthed the skeleton while attending the conference. Not all of the pieces of the skeleton were recovered in the excavation. The scientific name of the animal is Elephas Columbi, which inhabited the lower portion of the Mississippi river more than 2,500 years ago. The findings revealed a perfect set of teeth and pieces of fossil ivory which are the remains of tusks, from 10 to 12 feet in length. Dr. Funkhouser said that the scarred bones had signs of having been gnawed in places by some sabre-toothed animal.

In the same excavation were found the remains of a prehistoric bear, and the jaws and horns of a prehistoric elk.

E. M. Perry, on whose farm the fossils were found, reported the discovery to Professor Broussard who asked Dr. Funkhouser to conduct their excavation. The bones will not be mounted because of the loss of several of the larger bones, but will be placed in the old library building upon the completion of the new library, which will then become a museum.

Pearce and Porter debated Ford and Finell at Middlesboro, Ky., high school, Monday morning, January 13, while Schell and Weaver debated the Lincoln Memorial University debaters at Powell's Valley, Tenn. That morning, later Amynx and Jackson met the Lincoln Memorial men at Tazewell, Tenn. Monday afternoon Pearce and Porter argued with Haeblerling and Finell, of L. M. U., on "Resolved, That a Substitute for Trial by Jury Should Be Found" at Duke Hall before 100 Lincoln Memorial students. Pearce and Porter defended the affirmative.

Monday night the only formal debate of the trip was held. Schell and Jackson arguing with Haeblerling and Fields on the chain store question. Approximately 800 heard this debate, many people coming from Middlesboro and other surrounding towns to hear the arguments.

Tuesday morning the final day of the return trip was begun and the Kentuckians arrived in Lexington at about 3 p. m., January 14.

Kentucky Quintet Will Make Journey Through South Next Week

By VERNON D. ROOKS

With most of us staging battles of our own in the annual duel with mid-semester examinations, the Kentucky Wildcats will stage a major attraction with a brace of games with Mississippi A. and M. in the Euclid avenue gymnasium tonight and Saturday night. The exams, as usual, are proving a tough morsel—so will the Mississippi Aggies.

The Mississippi games will be the last for the Wildcats this semester and the last in Lexington before the annual southern trip which begins January 31.

Kentucky has a chance to move into the lead of the Southern Conference with victories in both of the games. The Washington and Lee Generals, leading at present with three victories, will be forced to step back into second place should the Wildcats make their total four.

Coach Johnny Mauer is not looking for an afternoon tea dance. The Big Blue team is having trouble with nightmares that bring back moments in the first game of the southern trip last year when they barely eked out a 25 to 23 win over the Aggies in an extra period. True enough, Kentucky came back in the second game to win 32 to 14, but Johnny Mauer says they were playing in their best form of the season that night.

And when you look at the trial the Mississippi team is leaving in the 1930 season, you can have a few nightmares of your own. The Aggies ran wild through the Mississippi State Teachers' team, 47 to 17, and 48 to 19 in a two-game series. Their 22 to 20 victory over Tulane's Green Wave is offset only by Tulane's win in the second game, 23 to 19. Tulane is going strong this year and Kentucky is not placing hopes on the Tulane defeat. The Aggies have three veterans back from the 1929 quintet and a group of sophomores that rank with the best in the South. The Aggies freshman team last year included five men, all over six-feet, and displayed the fastest foot work in the conference.

Coach Mauer has decided to start Louis McGinnis and Carey Spicer at the forward positions. Stanley Milward has recovered from the pulled tendon in his leg to the extent that he will start tonight. Captain Paul McBrayer and Lawrence McGinnis have been named the starting guards.

Following the Mississippi games, the Wildcats will journey to Knoxville, Tenn., to meet the Volunteers January 31. Before returning to Lexington they will meet Georgia at Athens February 1, and Clemson at Clemson February 3. The next home game will be played with Georgia Tech February 8.

Strollers Consider Mystery or Comedy To Stage In Spring

Thomas L. Riley, Pi Kappa Alpha, chairman of the committee appointed by Strollers to select the play to be produced by that organization for the spring show, has announced that a number of excellent plays are under consideration. Early in the second semester, the committee expects to decide definitely on the play to be used.

Other members of the committee besides Mr. Riley are Miss Mary Virginia Hall, Kappa Delta; and Len Weakley, Delta Tau Delta.

Two types of plays, mysteries and comedies, make up the following list from which the spring show will be chosen.

Mystery plays: "The First Floor Front," "Easy Pickings," "The Laughing Guest," "The Rear Car," "Call of the Banshee," "The Inner Circle," and "Scarlet."

Comedies: "Peekaboo Lady," "Help Yourself," "Stray Cats," "The Easy Mark," "The Fall Guy," "The Show Off," "Wedding Bells," "Tommy," "Fast Workers," "Laff That Off," and "Go Easy Mabel."

Roscoe R. Dalton is Wayne County Judge

Roscoe R. Dalton, graduate from the College of Law at the University last year, has assumed his duties as judge of Wayne County, according to information received here this week. Mr. Dalton was well-known on the campus while attending the University, and was a member of Phi Alpha Delta and Sigma Chi fraternities. Mr. Dalton's popularity in his home county is evidenced by the fact that he led his party to its first victory in 20 years.

begin. Wrestling and handball has kept the men in good physical condition since the close of last season.

Will Ed Covington, Tom Walters, Pete Drury and Joe Thomason will not be present when the fun starts, and they will be greatly missed, but the most pessimistic of coaches will find it difficult to become discouraged over the array of talent which will be presented. Captain "Floppy" Forquer heads a list of linemen which should produce the outstanding forward wall of the South, while the backfield presents a problem in numbers. How to select the best possible combination from the 20 candidates will be the hardest thing Gamage has to do.

Shivley will take up the matter of developing a man to replace Pete Drury which is something of a job in itself. Baughman, who played end during the past season, and Seale, the giant center from the freshmen squad, will be given an opportunity to do their stuff as tackles.

Wright, Clark, John Drury, Kipping and Greathouse are other outstanding candidates for tackle positions. Williams and Colker will take care of the center position and will have Wilder and Luther as understudies. Forquer, Rose, McElroy and Johnson are the outstanding guard candidates in addition to eight men from Coach Fribble's outfit.

Will Ed Covington is the only man lost to the backfield and his loss will be offset by the addition of Johnson, Boardman, Wooldridge, Bickel, Foster, Tucker and Chapman.

With the best coaching staff in the South and material second to none, Kentucky seems well on her way to the top of Southern Conference football.

SQUIRREL FOOD L

By C. E. BARNES

All year we've had an idea that we'd been percolating around in a modern University—but during examination week, here, there, or any other place,—we always feel that the appropriate title to tack on an institution of higher learning is "University." At least, those of us who haven't become completely befuddled by last minute reviews have a guilty feeling that we should have been doing some work when we haven't.

We've developed a new theory on living—at least it is unique, and we think it is original. We've decided after some little deliberation and not an inconsiderable practice, that SLEEPING IS A FOOLISH HABIT. Oh yes! The average college student gets far more sleep than he actually has any need for—if his sleep were properly directed and at the time when he most needs it.

For instance, most of us have a habit of going to bed somewhere near the same hour every night—merely a matter of form. No particular use to do that. One can get along far better by an occasional half-hour's sleep when one most needs it. An hour's sleep after dinner will enable you to stay up and study for hours, and with another hour's sleep at midnight, one is able to work through the quiet hours of the morning until an eight o'clock exam.

But, after all the examinations in the law school are over, we're going to be just a little bit old fashioned and go off to some quiet place where we can sleep undisturbed for at least a week.

Some days ago we had the question as to whether women should smoke, rather forcibly called to our attention. There seems to be a variety of opinions among the necker sex—men, as to whether the ladies should indulge in their after dinner cigarettes. The majority of the men at U. K. are agreed on certain elemental facts:

1—Most men don't object to women smoking if they buy their own cigarettes.

2—All men agree that they had rather the co-eds would smoke than chew.

3—Practically all are agreed that it is not especially conducive to feminine attraction to smoke cigars.

4—All men draw the line at pipes—because a college man ought to have some privileges that will be exclusively characteristic of the men.

In looking through the files of the various colleges papers throughout the country during the past week we have noted with considerable interest that four editors of college papers have resigned from their positions. The reasons assigned are chiefly "scholastic difficulties" and the further fact that "the work is not worth the effort involved."

It is a regrettable fact that the position as editor of student publications is quite generally one which involves a great deal of work and for the most part no pay. It seems hardly fair to expect students to devote a very vital portion of their time, in the interests of the university and the student body and in so doing to curtail their own scholastic standing, and all for the glory (however slight that may be) of having a responsible activity on the campus. There is no particular reason why student publications cannot be made remunerative enough that students will be justified in devoting a portion of their time to such work, even if at the sacrifice of their scholastic standing.

Co-eds Graduate is Honored by Journal

The January issue of "Product Engineering" contained the picture and an accompanying article in the section headed "In The Spotlight" of Miss Margaret Ingles, who was graduated from the College of Engineering at the University.

Miss Ingles was the first woman to receive a degree in mechanical engineering from the University. She has served in the capacity of research engineer for the America Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers in the State of New York. Recently Miss Ingles joined the Carrier-Lyle Corporation, Newark, N. J., and is now serving as an engineer specializing in the development and use of air-conditioning services.

A SUGGESTION

It is a part of the office of the Kentucky Kernel to point out what we feel to be the most apparent needs for the service of the University of Kentucky. The deficiency that we would call to the attention of the authorities now is the obvious necessity of a more efficacious system for admitting students to basketball games.

Conceding that the lights being off for a short time may have hindered the organization for handling the students at the Tennessee game the other night, we do not believe that there is any excuse for causing students to stand in the snow 40 minutes to gain entrance to the building. Throughout the season to date, only one door has been opened for the admission of three thousand students, and only two ticket handlers have been provided. Surely, with five double doors on the north side of the gymnasium a more effective system can be evolved.

Students are not particularly difficult to keep off the basketball floor, especially when they appreciate that if they do not it will be damaging to their own team, and we see no reason why the patent blue-coats could not be used to properly direct the student crowds to their section so that more than one door can be used. We are anxious to cooperate with the athletic department in providing for what we consider a most obvious need.

LEST YE FORGET!

Because this is the last Kernel of the semester and everyone will be well launched on their second race of the year before another paper appears, we wish to think forward a few weeks and offer suggestions on the new beginning that each must make.

Just here we wish prosperity, luck, and the usual run of good fortune, to those Seniors who pull up their stakes at the University with the closing of this semester, and move to other fields. We shall miss them, but we feel sure that they will easily make a place for themselves in other localities.

Almost as though it were New Year's day students may be heard making new resolutions which will probably prove as useless and invalid as the usual ones. To be making a new start seems to give a new lease on school life. Make an effort to freshen this lease each day of the semester.

As practically every publication carries, at one time or another, advice to students on what to do and when to do it, we wish to extend a few rules for your consideration.

1. Make a supreme struggle during the last week of this semester to bring your grades as high as possible.

2. When registering, be sure that you are working off all required subjects possible. (It gives one a superb feeling to realize that he will be able to make up one's last semester's course of nearly all electives.)

3. Don't try to sign up for courses that are too advanced for you. You will probably regret it within a very few weeks if you do.

4. Don't try to carry too many hours of work.

5. If possible select the instructors whom you know. (If you don't like the instructor you will probably flunk the course.)

6. Last of all, don't make a big splash at the beginning and then slump for the rest of the semester. Keep up your work.

We don't feel that you will heed these few suggestions to any great extent, but if you don't, at least we can say, "We told you so."

TO "LOCAL COLOR" PRODUCERS

The Kernel compliments Frank Davidson, C. Earl Senff, and Katherine Davis on the favorable comments which they have received from all over the country as a result of their successful production of their musical comedy "Local Color."

The New York Times, in asking permission to publish the pictures of the producers, adds a cosmopolitan touch to the comedy. The three co-authors have received offers for the purchase of the play outright.

Mr. Davidson and his collaborators are pioneers in this field at the University. We hope that the success of "Local Color" will inspire many others to write plays and musical comedies. It took great courage for the producers to risk the gibes and ridicule of the mass of students, but now that they have succeeded in a more or less commendable fashion, we hope that there will be a movement to make an annual practice of having a musical comedy written each year, directed and presented by the students of the University.

Indiana University does it, Purdue does it, Michigan does it, so do many other of the large schools. The University of Kentucky has talent as good or better; let's make use of it. "Local Color" has shown the way.

The Kernel does not hesitate to extend our congratulations to Mr. Davidson and his cohorts, and to admit that they have done an admirable bit of work.

DORMITORY ASSEMBLIES

The presence of President McVey as principal speaker at the weekly meeting of the Men's Dormitory Association last week brings to the attention of the Kernel the splendid work of this group, in cooperation with the University Y. M. C. A., in procuring prominent people from all walks of life to address these 200 young men each week.

The idea is certainly to be commended. Brought together in such a manner at regular intervals, the students residing in the residence halls are given an opportunity to exchange ideas with those of their fellow students and with those of the speakers brought to lead the discussion. They are enabled to know more intimately professors on the campus, and to understand more fully and clearly the moral and ethical ideals taught by the ministers and teachers brought from the churches of Lexington.

Considering the wide range of discussion topics taken up at the various meetings, the men who live in the halls may well feel that these gatherings are certainly an element in the acquiring of a liberal education.

The Kernel congratulates those responsible for this movement, and feels that it will go toward making the dormitories among the most ideal of living quarters for men students at the University.

OPPORTUNITY

Elmer G. Sulzer, director of the University band, long known as the "best band in Dixie," last week announced that he had placed two University students in promising positions directing high school bands in the state. Such an opportunity to the students who spend many hours of practice in the band is gratifying recompense for their time and interest.

In the general dislike for physical education classes, many boys sign for band, not realizing what an opportunity is being placed before them. Possibly this new service rendered by Mr. Sulzer will open the eyes of students to the future found today in directing high school bands and orchestras.

Meanwhile, the crack R. O. T. C. band at the University will hold its own, gaining national recognition and giving unlimited opportunities to those who compose the unit. It is still another symbol characteristic of the phrase, "On, On, U. of K."

Dean Raymond Walters, of Swarthmore announced some time ago that the enrollment in American colleges and universities increased only two per cent during the last year. This appears particularly alarming in view of the vast increase in the collegiate enrollment during the period from 1921 to 1927.

PHI BETA KAPPA

At this time of the school year, many students begin to worry about their grades. If they have a standing of one, they want to be sure not to fall below that mark. Others who have good standings wish to keep that record, so that they may be among the few who are selected for Phi Beta Kappa.

This is an honor which few attain, and it is only fitting that those who have been selected this semester to become members of this oldest national honorary scholastic fraternity should be given the recognition which is due them.

They should be recognized not because they have been selected to become members of this national honorary, but because of what they have done. One should remember the countless hours they must have spent in making the grades which affords them this deserved honor. When we see the Phi Beta Kappa key we should think of the tradition behind that key, and what it means to the individual to get the coveted trophy.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest Greek letter organization in the world. It was founded as a secret organization at William and Mary College in 1776. Its purpose was to foster scholarship and debate, and it was not until 1870 that the organization became an honorary for both sexes.

To the individual, this honor may come as a pleasant surprise, or it may have been the urge which spurred them on to attain the traditional trophy, at any rate the honor which has just been received is not undeserved, and has not come without the burning of the famed midnight oil.

SEND THE BAND

"The Best Band in Dixie" has for several years represented the University on the various gridirons of the south and now for the first time the University will have the opportunity to send this unit to the Southern Conference tournament in March. The SuKy Circle started the movement by appropriating $200 for the partial defraying of the expenses of the trip.

Of course it will be impossible to send all of the members of the band but a very large representative part of the Concert Band could be sent with the basketball team for approximately $700. Now the biggest problem faced by the backers of the movement is the raising of the additional $500.

The Kernel feels that the band should be sent to the tournament and the student body should do all within its power to aid in this effort. Professor Sulzer and his musicians will do all they can to cheer the Wildcats on to victory if they make the trip.

A CONVENTION CENTER

We note, with pardonable pride, that the university is becoming, more and more, a center, for educational meetings and conventions. With the gaining of facilities for such meetings the University is being host to an increasingly large number of annual conventions. The University of Kentucky campus is the Mecca toward which all eyes turn when the question of a convention is broached.

All this is as it should be, the University is the logical center of activities in the state. The Kernel congratulates the administration on its success in bringing to the University these desirable meetings. Under such able leadership, the University of Kentucky is taking her rightful place in the educational sun.

LOVERS

The sunset with a glow of pride
Greets happily the sea.
And darkness hides them as they kiss
In lovers' ecstasy.

The pinetree to the evening star
Chants melodies of love,
While sitting high upon a throne
She coquettes from above.

The west wind woes the breakers
All through the long night hours,
And dewdrops pass their fragrant lips
O'er forms of sleeping flowers.

The moonbeams lie like silver nymphs,
Against the river's heart,
And only dawn as it creeps along
Can tear the two apart.

For the moon is a kindly chaperone,
Who, being very wise,
Pretends he is bored with lovers' ways
And slyly hides his eyes.

In the Bell System research and development are not confined to engineering laboratory. These methods are applied also to the commercial side of the business, to make telephone service more and more useful.

An example is the classified telephone directory, with its convenient listings by trade and profession, for quick and easy reference. Or take this other use of the classified directory. Telephone men analyzed advertising and merchandising. They saw that prospective purchasers of advertised products often did not know where to buy them. They developed a plan for listing these dealers under their brand name in local "Where to Buy It" directories—a genuine service to buyer and seller alike.

Finals Reached in Intramural Boxing and Wrestling Tourney

By ELBERT McDONALD

The finals of the intramural boxing and wrestling tournament were reached Thursday night in what proved to be one of the most interesting sessions held during the present meeting. Many upsets marked the semi-finals Wednesday night when a number of favorites fell by the wayside. Prominent among those eliminated was Tom Phipps in the 175-pound boxing division, and Ralph "Babe" Wright in the unlimited wrestling division. Phipps losing to Engel after decisively winning the first round of their scheduled three-round bout, and Wright losing by a fall in a second extra round of his wrestling bout. Wright lacked only 3 seconds winning his match in the regular period.

Plenty of action and lots of excitement marked the semi-finals and a large crowd was present. The matches have been well attended throughout the entire meet. All matches were won on decision except two, Hoffman and Moore of the 135-pound class, each winning by technical knockouts.

In the semi-final wrestling matches Nesbit won from Bolser in the 135 class, with a scissors hold on the body. Thorne won by default from Price, who, at the weighing in time, was unable to make the weight lacking 1 pound. He will meet Portwood in the finals. Portwood winning his match in the 145 class by default also. In the 175 class, Manolson won from Humber by a fall in an extra round. Greenfield won from Vondeheide in the 185 class by a time decision, his "top hold" time being one minute and 23 seconds. J. Drury defeated "Babe" Wright by a fall in the second extra round of their match, which was in the unlimited division.

In the boxing matches, Harper won from Stevens in the 135 class by a decision. Hoffman took the 145 class from Shropshire by a technical knockout. In the 165 class Moore won from Ferguson by a decision. While Wooten, in the same class, scored the quickest win of the evening with a technical kayo over Farris one minute and 30 seconds. Phipps, after winning the first round of his fight in the 175 class, lost the decision to Engel. In the same class, Luther won from J. Chapman on decision.

The finals of the tournament will be held in the men's gym February 10, starting at 7:30 o'clock, and a capacity crowd is expected as more interest has been shown in the meets this year than in any of the previous tournaments.

A new feature of the tournament this year is the erection of a regular "ring" which has proved a decided improvement over the use of floor mats formerly used to stage the bouts on. Both the winner and the runners-up in all classes of both boxing and wrestling will receive medals. The winners will be awarded gold medals emblematic of the university championship in the respective weights while the runners-up will receive finalist's medals which are silver.

SCHOOL BODY TO MEET

The Committee on the Accrediting of Secondary Schools will meet Friday afternoon, January 17, at 1 o'clock in room 106, McVey Hall, to pass on the credit of secondary schools in the state. This is the first of a series of two meetings of a committee made up of representatives from all the colleges in Kentucky.

The annual meeting of the Association of Kentucky Colleges will be held Saturday. Reports will be given by the High School Inspectors, reports by various committees and a statement from Professor Gillis on the records of the Kentucky High School graduates in the Kentucky colleges will be made.

Prof. J. C. Jones to Serve as Examiner

City Board Members are Named to Select Police and Firemen

Prof. J. Carlton Jones, of the Political Science Department, has accepted the appointment to the City Board of Civil Service Examiners according to a statement made by Mayor James J. O'Brien, Saturday. The position is an honorary one, since he does not receive any compensation for his services.

The City Board of Civil Service Examiners has been recently formed under Mayor O'Brien. Its purpose is to institute a system of competitive examination for positions on the police force and fire department similar to the system employed by the national government.

It will be the duty of the board to formulate and give examinations to every applicant for a position on the police force or fire department and it is hoped that this practice will secure for the city more competent public servants.

The acceptance of Professor Jones completes the membership of the board. Other members are Dr. George Wilson, chairman and Charles Thompson.

Students of German Department Stage Play at Pat Hall

"Eigensinn," the one act German comedy presented Tuesday night at Patterson Hall proved to be a great success, with 150 persons present. Each player portrayed their part admirably and the success of the play was due to the cooperation of the players.

Mrs. Sarah Culbertson was excellent in her role and showed a thorough knowledge of the language.

Mrs. Lola Robinson also deserves much credit. Mrs. Robinson is secretary of the executive board of the Guignol theater and she has a part in the next Guignol play.

Much credit should be given to Mr. Anton Grassel, director of the play and instructor in the German department.

Characters of the play are: Heinrich, a butler, Clarence Rothenburg; Lisbeth, a maid; Anna Louise Rice; Alfred, master of the house; James Porter, Jr.; Emma, Alfred's wife; Mrs. Sarah H. Culbertson; Ausdorf, the father-in-law of Alfred; Richard M. Weaver; and Katharina, Emma's mother, Mrs. Lola Robinson.

Before the play was presented, Dean Melcher gave a brief talk on the contents of the play and the recent work of the German department.

Spanish Club Has Final Meeting of First Semester

El Ateneo Castellano, Spanish Club, held its last meeting for the first semester at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the recreation room of Patterson Hall. The program consisted of a business session with Mr. Martin Glenn, president, in charge, and a social hour under the direction of Miss Caroline Brown.

Extensive plans were made for the club's activities for next semester, and an effort will be made to interest new members in the organization. The annual banquet will be held near the close of school. It was announced, and at that time those students who have been outstanding in the work of the club, as well as in their Spanish classes, will be admitted to the inner circle, or honorary group, Los Conquistadores.

During the social hour, Miss Brown directed several contests games, and refreshments were served.

BASKETBALL

FROM

By
THE SIDELINES JOHN MAUER
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY COACH

(Sixth of a series of articles on basketball by John Mauer, University of Kentucky coach.)

VI.

The Criss-cross and Long Shot
Offenses
The Criss-cross offense is another of the short pass, slow breaking methods of attack. The funda-mentals used include the low dribble, one-handed short shot, running stride pivot, bounce pass and the poised shot. This type of offense is too intricate for high school boys to master and very few secondary school coaches attempt to use it.

Three set principals determine the proper execution of this offense.
First, the man who makes the original pass must continue on in the path of the pass made. This rule must be followed if perfect floor balance is to be maintained at all times. By floor balance I mean that at all times in the course of an offense, one man will be located in the area and one in each side area. Secondly, the man about to receive the pass must move at an approximate angle of 45 degrees from the side-lines, either toward the basket or away from it.
This makes it possible for the ball
to be advanced at the proper speed and for the passer to know how much to lead the man to receive the pass. Thirdly, the man who is to receive the next pass must get ahead of the ball far enough to be in a position to receive the next pass. This requires that he move at about a 15 degree angle from the sidelines if he is to get ahead of the ball.

Hundreds of possibilities present themselves with this method of attack, varying with the original position in which you place your men.

The Long Shot System

This type of offense varies from the previous types discussed in that the coach develops the individual playing habits of his men instead teaching them the set fundamental habits. The ball is advanced through the defense by means of individual effort rather than team play. As soon as the man with the ball is stopped by the defense he shoots at the basket from long range. He has three ideas in mind as he takes the shot. First, he attempts to score. Secondly, if he fails to make the basket he is depending upon his team-mates to rebound and score in this fashion.
Thirdly, he considers his shot. If unsuccessful, as a pass to a teammate via the backboard route. Rebound positions similar to those described in the long pass and three lane offenses are taken after the shot is attempted. The center is about 10 feet in front of the basket
and the forwards at either side.
The floor guard trails the play and is located about 5 or 6 feet behind the center.

The chief disadvantage of this type of attack is its inconsistency.
Teams employing it may be unusually hot one night and extremely cold the next. The small number of possibilities offered in this attack make for a smaller degree of consistency. That is, if you fail to make a good percentage of your long baskets you have no other method available to score with.
This results in a great game one night followed by a poor one the next.

Although the five types of offense already discussed comprise the chief methods of attack, hundreds of variations within each type are used. It is doubtful, however, if any type used could be classified
under one of the above mentioned types; namely, the long pass, the three lane, sideline, criss-cross and long shot offenses.

Athletic Council to Change System of Awarding Letters

By WILBUR G. FRYE

The University of Kentucky Athletic council has adopted a new system for the awarding of letters
to university athletes in the future,
according to an announcement made by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, a member of the body.

In relation to football, the new rule says that if a player plays as much as one full quarter in the majority of games throughout the season, he is then entitled to his letter.
The old rule was a complicated one and so complex that Coach Gamage often could not tell whether or not one of his men had played the requisite number of minutes to entitle him to a letter.

In the future, there will be only two sorts of letters awarded to athletes at the university. Participants in major sports will receive the large eight-inch "K," while those engaging in minor sports will receive five-inch letters, providing they meet the requirements necessary to be entitled to a letter. Only four sports will be recognized by the council as major sports, Dr.

Funkhouser declared. They will be football, baseball, basketball and track.

The council also passed a ruling
to the effect that all team captains will receive distinctive sweaters in the future, and that all seniors on the football team who earn their letters also will receive a gold football in token of the service they have rendered the university.

The new rulings accepted by the council were prepared by a subcommittee of the body several days ago. Those who prepared them for the consideration of the council were Coach Harry Gamage, Dr.
Funkhouser and S. A. "Daddy" Boles. There will be no question of conflict with rules of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference,
as officials of that body permit each school to make its own rules concerning the awarding of letters and to determine what sports shall be major and minor.

Lexington's rialto this week is filled with disappointments. "Chasing Rainbows" is poorly presented,
although the talent is excellent;
"Show of Shows," nothing to write your congressman about, and "The Lone Star Ranger" is just another western.

The high spot of the week was the special front built at the Kentucky on "The Show of Shows." Too bad the picture couldn't come up to the class of the theater artist.

—TLR—

"The Sky Hawk," a William Fox
picture, is hailed by all the critics as being a really great thriller and the best air picture to reach the screen. It has its setting in the Zeppelin night raid on London. This sequence is, according to Robert Sherwood, the most vivid piece argument yet advanced on the silver sheet. The cast of "The Sky Hawk" embraces, for the most part, unknowns but do not let that keep you from seeing it. "The Sky Hawk" will be given a premiere showing tomorrow night at 10:15
and will open its regular run Sunday at the Strand theater.

—TLR—

It will soon be time for the Guignol to present "East Lynne" and, from what I hear,
it should prove to be a brilliant production. It will be great to see a legitimate stage play after the movies of this week. "East Lynne" opens February 10.

—TLR—

Ruth Chatterton has contributed some of the finest acting of the talking screen and her latest Paramount picture, "The Laughing Lady," will open at the Kentucky theater tomorrow. Miss Chatterton first achieved fame on the screen with "The Doctor's Secret"
and followed that with "Madam X." In "The Laughing Lady" she is awarded another emotional role in the character of a woman who laughs at everything regardless of its gravity. See this picture if for nothing else than the superb acting of the star.

—TLR—

Similar: As annoying as those

the Strand.

The cinema has almost run the gamut of famous popular musicians and now we have "The Vagabond Lover," a Radio picture starring Rudy Vallee, opening at the Ben Ali Sunday. All the women will want to see this and test the statement used in his publicity concerning his voice which is supposed to make a million women's hearts
